The intention in the first instance was to deal, in the following pages, simply with the analytical methods, which are almost exclusively the work of R. Henriques, more particularly as regards the rubber substitutes so-called, and my own researches, chiefly concerning india rubber itself and the vulcanisation problem. This refers to work done within the last ten years. Before that time india rubber analysis, if it existed at all, was unknown to the outside world. But I discovered very soon that a mere compilation of analytical methods could at best only claim a very limited technical interest, and only point the way to obtaining a number of statistical data respecting india rubber and its manufactures, without affording any solid basis for their subsequent interpretation. This might have sufficed for those who simply want to do india rubber, but would have rendered the work almost worthless to those who hereafter may feel inclined to turn their attention to a field of inquiry equally fascinating in its chemical, physical, physiological, and technical aspects. I resolved, therefore, to enlarge the scope of the work by the introduction of...
