Excerpt: . . . just referred to agree in attributing the general movements of the universe to the immediate Divine action. The doctrine of preestablished harmony was an especial contrivance of Leibnitz to remove the Creator from unworthy association with the less divine acts of living beings. Obsolete as this expression sounds to our ears, the phrase laws of the universe, which we use so constantly with a wider application, appears to me essentially identical with it. Force does not admit of explanation, nor of proper definition, any more than the hypothetical substratum of matter. If we assume the Infinite as omnipresent, omniscient, omnipotent, we cannot suppose Him excluded from any part of His creation, except from rebellious souls which voluntarily exclude Him by the Et generalem quod attinet, manifestum mihi videtur illam causatn non aliam esse, quam Deum ipsum, qui materiam simul cum motu et quiete in...
